NOW MORE THAN EVER

A letter from the Board Chair

Thank you for making Fiscal Year 2021 our most successful year to date. With your support, we grew to meet dramatically increased needs in ways we never thought possible. We are operating nine mobile pantries, serving seven new community partners, and have increased the amount of food we give to all our partners. We distributed over 1 million MORE pounds of food in FY2021 than in FY2020. We hired staff, expanded warehouse space, bought more food, built a new walk-in refrigerator, and upgraded our technology. We stayed open in very difficult times, even when others shut their doors. You helped us put food on the table for over 76,000 people, often more than once. We continued to increase the percentage of food we give away that is fresh and locally grown.

Because of you, we met the challenges of the past year. Now we are facing new challenges. Just as the pandemic didn't impact every household equally, the economic recovery hasn't benefited everyone equally. The face of hunger is changing. The newly food insecure in the Washington, DC region are more likely to be employed, living in larger households with children, and facing eviction than those who experienced food insecurity before the pandemic. Now, more than ever, we must renew our commitment towards better, more equitable food access.

With your support, we have started taking the necessary steps. We have implemented new technology that lets us communicate directly with our program participants. We have solicited their feedback about the variety, quality, and quantity of food we distribute, and about the services we provide. We are using this feedback to improve our processes, training, and quality control.

We are actively looking for ways to reach food insecure people who still do not know about us. We want to reach the people who still cannot get to one of our sites or who need prepared meals. Homeless people. Seniors. People who speak languages other than English. Households whose culture or religion make it difficult to use the food we traditionally provide. These are key parts of the equitable food safety net that we want to provide.

Thank you for more making hunger relief a priority, and for joining us in the fight during this record-breaking year. It will not be easy to work towards equitable food access while sustaining pandemic-level services, but with your help it is possible. As we near the end of our 26th year, we are more grateful than ever for your partnership and for this extraordinary community.

FAMILIES USE EMERGENCY FOOD TO REBUILD

CLIENT SPOTLIGHT

We met with Augustina and her mother, Yolanda, at Food for Others partner and mobile site Annandale United Methodist Church. Augustina spoke on behalf of herself and her mom. She told us what it was like for her as a young student in a family that was facing food insecurity. While she was in school, her mother came to AUMC to pick up groceries. Augustina said that knowing there were hot meals ready for her allowed her to focus on her schoolwork.

AUMC's food distributions nourished Yolanda's family until the time came that they no longer needed the pantry's assistance. Yolanda's healthy and resilient children moved on in their careers, pouring their strength and resources back into their community.

As with so many stories, theirs took an unexpected turn because of the COVID-19 pandemic. Yolanda and her family were grateful that AUMC and Food for Others were still there for them, ready to respond to food insecurity in their neighborhood. Even as her adult children have gone back to work, Yolanda continues to visit AUMC while she builds back her savings. Fortunately, the pandemic did not rob the early investment she made in Augustina's education. On the contrary, Augustina is using her voice to advocate for herself, her mother, and her neighbors.

Like Yolanda, many people have found themselves in need of emergency food during the pandemic. Whether they're visiting the Food for Others main warehouse, or one of our nine mobile sites, they know that they're going to leave with enough food to feed their families for 3 to 5 days. That helps them get to that next paycheck, keep the lights on, or worry a little less about their kids that week. In FY21, Food for Others distributed emergency food to 42,159 individuals. So many people came together to make that possible: all of you who donated food, money and time, our generous grocery store partners, Fairfax County, the many social workers, healthcare providers, and other organizations who referred families, and our dedicated mobile site partners. Thank you!

NEW COMMUNITY PARTNER SPOTLIGHT

Fighting hunger takes everyone. To help meet the increasing need for food all over the region, Food for Others established relationships with seven new community partners including First A.M.E. Church of Alexandria (FAME). FAME serves the community along the Route 1 corridor, an area with poverty, unstable housing, and food insecurity. FAME volunteers distribute groceries from Food for Others and other organizations at their church every other Wednesday afternoon, feeding 125-150 families each time.

Volunteers at FAME had already been running a food pantry for several years prior to the pandemic, serving a handful of people. Once the pandemic started, demand skyrocketed and they didn't know how they were going to get enough food. Volunteer Dana Richardson says, "When you all came along it was absolutely a blessing. We are a small church and we didn't know where we were going to get the funds. When Dustin (Food for Others Program Coordinator) reached out to me, it was like the sky was opened up!" Food for Others delivers 5,000 lbs. of groceries including non-perishables, fresh produce, milk, and eggs every two weeks just in time for distribution.

Dana tells the story of a family who received food from FAME.

The mom was forced to quit work when schools closed.

The husband was the only one in the family working. She just happened to be driving by FAME when her daughter looked at her and asked when they were going to buy food. She didn't have the heart to tell her they didn't have money for food. At that point they saw the food giveaway happening at FAME and pulled over. They cried as they told their story, and the FAME volunteers loaded them up with as many groceries as they could give them. That story and many others have stayed with Dana.

Food for Others is honored to partner with FAME and our other new partners: She Believes in Me, CityLight Church, Vienna Presbyterian Church, FACETS, Salvation Army, and Medical Care for Children Partnership (MCCP). The CARES grant funding that pays for this program will end in December of this year, but with your help, Food for Others plans to continue this program at least through June 2022.

USING TECHNOLOGY TO IMPROVE CUSTOMER SERVICE

Thanks to our generous supporters, Food for Others upgraded our technology and switched from Microsoft Access to Salesforce. Inventory, volunteer management, donor management, and client services are all now integrated. Making this shift has made us more efficient in our operations and has changed the way we interact with our program participants. The new system also makes the process easier for clients and social workers. In the old system, social workers filled out paper forms or emailed referrals for the emergency program. Sometimes the paperwork would not arrive, and the social worker or client would have to make another call or another trip. Now the portal securely captures the information the first time and notifies the client when the referral is in, minimizing confusion.

This new, direct communication with clients has other benefits as well. We send texts and emails in two languages to push out news, coordinate mobile site pickups and get feedback from clients. Our client satisfaction survey, sent to every emergency program participant, captures their opinions on the quality, quantity, and variety of food they receive, and their experience receiving services at Food for Others. To incentivize participation, FFO enters each respondent into a weekly raffle for a grocery store gift card. The system captures their responses, tracks the weekly averages, and displays the results on a company dashboard.

We are delighted that most participants report that their food lasts 5 days or more and are generally happy with the variety and quality. When we do receive negative feedback about the food, we respond and implement tighter quality control measures. Our staff also appreciate hearing when they've done a good job.

Thanks to all of our supporters who made this new technology possible, Food for Others is serving our food insecure neighbors efficiently and with dignity.

Some recent comments:

"The staff is phenomenal! I could see the care and respect in their eyes I cannot thank them enough."

"Gracias, es de ayuda para mi y mi familia. Esta comida me ayuda a solventar un poco mi economía."

(Thank you, it helps me and my family, this food helps me to pay a little for my finances.)

MEET LORI

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

Volunteer Lori has been making a difference at Food for Others for the past 6 years. She first started working in the warehouse packing vegetables with her husband. After working in the warehouse, she moved on to preparing orders to better utilize her talents. Next, she moved to Power Packs and she has been there ever since.

Currently, Lori volunteers every Monday and many Tuesdays (leaving time for golf). In addition to packing Power Packs, she and her husband deliver them to four schools - Graham Rd., Fairfield, Parkline, and Mount Vernon- each week. She explained that the school offices are very thankful and it's nice to see.

Lori expressed her appreciation for the comradery and friendship at Food for Others. She does not want to sit at home idly in retirement. She also shared that "knowing [she's] helping people is her favorite part of volunteering at Food for Others". She described the experience as "mind boggling" to "hear about people struggling with food when many people think Fairfax County is a 'rich county.'"

Lori encourages more people to sign up to volunteer. When asked what she'd like to tell future volunteers, she advised them to wear good shoes since they'll be standing on concrete, show up for their shifts, and have fun!

Volunteers are the heart of the Food for Others mission. This is especially evident in the Power Pack Program, which provides weekend meals to thousands of children who rely on school meals for their nutrition. In FY21, the Power Pack Program delivered 45,073 meal packs. That's 270,438 kid-friendly meals, 90,146 tasty snacks, and 90,146 milks and juices! Volunteers packed, inspected, and delivered these packs, contributing more than 3,000 hours of service.

With school back in person for the 2021-2022 school year, we're anticipating that this program will be bigger than ever. To find out how you can help, visit our website, www.foodforothers.org, and click on "Get Involved."
